

Scoring Rubric for Women & Girls Grant Applications

Mission:

The Community Fund for Women & Girls promotes social and economic advancement for women and girls through strategic philanthropy, grants, advocacy and collaboration.

The following questions are used to evaluate each grant proposal:

1.	This program was intentionally designed to serve or benefit women and girls and focuses on women and/or girls as beneficiaries, advocates, and/or leaders.
2.	This program considers women and/or girls in context, accounts for gender differences in program design, and considers the multiple barriers and challenges facing women and girls.
3.	This program promotes equity and social justice for women and/or girls and maximizes their social and economic well-being.
4.	This program's design and implementation include input from the population to be served.
5.	This program has potential for future impact on more women and girls through replication, repetition, or expansion, by affecting policy or practice or by calling attention to pressing issues.
6.	This program has clearly identified outcomes and a meaningful quantitative or qualitative evaluation component which can demonstrate impact.
7.	The program shows a likelihood of success and is evidence-based or rooted in best-practice.
8.	The budget is clear and appropriate for the proposed program.
9.	The investment per person is commensurate with the desired outcome of the program.
10.	A grant from the Fund would contribute meaningfully to the program's implementation.
